Antioch Beats Grant On Bulldog Errors 4-3; Grayslake Here Friday

Games With Wauconda & Fenton Rained Out; Frosh-Soph Lose

The Antioch Sequoits edged the Grant Bulldogs 4 to 3 in a pitching duel here Tuesday.

Although Ed Mack allowed Antioch but three hits, three errors by the Bulldog catcher, Grenell and two by the third baseman, Smith, helped the Sequoits in two of their unearned runs.

On the other hand, Pyles had good support behind his 6-hit pitching.

The key hit of the game was a triple by Pat Roach, Antioch center fielder, in the fifth inning with two men on base, which before the inning ended allowed the Sequoits three scores.

Antioch scored in the first when Roach walked, stole second, holding up at third on Jonas' single. Then Grenell threw wild in trying to pick Jonas at second and Roach scored.

Pyle blanked the Bulldogs on two hits until the sixth, when the Grant nine bunched four safeties to push across all three of its runs. Denny Hodge, pinch hitting, led off with a single and scored on Ronnie Madden's triple to left. Fritz Kazlauskis singled Madden home and (continued on page 5)

A single and a double by second baseman Gil Amborn, driving in three runs, aided the Panther victory. Norman Roberts, third baseman, clouted a double and Bill Haase, center fielder lined out a triple.

With the game at 4-1, the Panthers aided by Dave VanEvery's timely single added another four runs in the sixth inning.

Lahti Oil Co. Installs Two-Way Radio Set

The Lahti Oil Co. of which W. V. Lahti is proprietor, has installed a two-way short-wave radio system, probably the first commercial system in Antioch.

It is licensed under the Federal Communications System. Through radio Lahti can keep in touch with his fuel oil delivery trucks at all times, directing them wherever the need is most urgent.

"There have been times when we needed to get in touch with the trucks and they were making deliveries where there was no telephone," said Lahti. "Now we don't need to worry about this situation."

Lahti, who handles Shell oil, said that normally he is able to estimate needs in his filler accounts, but that perhaps because of a faulty burner more oil is consumed than necessary and an emergency refill sometimes is needed.

"By rerouting our trucks we can dispatch the nearest truck to the place in need and the fire need be out but a few minutes," Lahti explained.

Cut Taxes—But Spend More Money!

In a report to constituents, a Congresswoman from Oregon says: "The proposed Federal Budget for 1958 has brought a flood of letters to my office. Almost without exception, the letters urge cuts . . . Some letters . . . urge me to vote to repeal the income tax and to cut the Budget—and also to vote for a pension to every citizen over 65."

This is simply an extreme example of a widely-held public attitude—that economy should be confined to "the other fellow." So long as it prevails we will have grossly swollen budgets, confiscatory taxation, and we will face the spectre of more inflation.

Toward a Free Agriculture

If any material cuts in government spending are to be made, and if there is to be any hope of eventual lowering of taxes within a balanced budget, every category of appropriation must be pared. The only exceptions are the fixed costs, such as interest, and basic national defense requirements.

This means that the burden of agricultural subsidies must be reduced. Farmer's can't hope or expect to be immune from the effects of a demand for economy that is gaining momentum throughout the nation.

If that happens, and if agriculture moves toward becoming a free enterprise in a supply-and-demand economy, the good results will not be limited to money saving. The principal benefits will be found in greater liberty and freedom of action for the farmer—both of which are severely and dangerously limited when government pays the bills and calls the tune.

Over the years, the producers of non-supported crops have actually had the happiest experience. Livestock, which moves in a free market, is a fine example. These producers, of course, have had many problems to face, and they've seen bad times along with the good. But their products have gone into consumption, not into storage. They can make their own plans and regulate their own destinies without following a rule-book written by bureaucrats. They have a day-in, day-out cash market always available, and it is a free and fair market, without arbitrary, man-made controls.

The livestock producers have always opposed subsidies and government domination. They prize freedom and independence. And livestock is, by far, the biggest source of cash to the American farmer.

A Record Tax Payment

Today almost everyone seems to be thinking about taxes—federal, state, local. So a news item from California takes on a big significance.

A gas and electric company there has made final payments on its 1956-57 local property tax bills. These added up to more than $50 million—the largest payments of its kind ever made in the state. This same company's total taxes for 1956 reached a new high record of just under $126 million.

Finally, the item states that taxes continue as the company's largest single item of expense, absorbing 25.3 cents of each dollar of revenue received from all sources.

What is true of this California utility is true in every section of the country. The dollar figures vary greatly, of course—but in each case utilities are among the biggest and most dependable taxpayers.

So here's the point. Think what would happen if the socializers had their way, and the power industry was taken over by government on a tax-free, tax-subsidized basis. Then the taxes we all pay would rise again.

"A Hitler Tactic"

Opponents of right-to-work laws (which simply say that a man can join a union if he wants to and can refrain from joining if that is what he wants, and that in either case he can work at his job free from coercion by union official or employer) argue that they are anti-labor, and that those who advocate them are trying to undermine the labor movement.

In this connection, a remark by Senator Goldwater is apt. He recalled that the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, who was one of the greatest friends of labor ever to occupy the White House, stated his absolute opposition to the requirement that a man must join a union, and characterized it as "a Hitler tactic."

And that is precisely what it is.

Rebuttal From an Authority

The distinguished physicist, Edward Teller, issued a warning that this nation must take steps to prepare itself for survival in the event of a nuclear war. In the course of his remarks he said that principal reliance should be placed on highway transportation, on the grounds that "our system of railroads is likely to be completely knocked out, at least for the moment."

Dr. Teller's view was reported in Time magazine. It brought a letter of rebuttal from one of America's most distinguished soldiers, and a man who has had unsurpassed experience with transportation under war conditions—General James A. Van Fleet, U. S. A. (ret.). General Van Fleet stated: "From experience as a combat commander in Europe during World War II and more recently in Korea, it is my firm conviction that our system of railroads is not likely to be completely knocked out by a nuclear attack, even for a moment. It is a matter of record that at Hiroshima and Nagasaki railroad-type structures stood up among the best, while at Hiroshima regular railroad service was resumed within 18 hours after the first atomic bomb was dropped."

The railroads have been the backbone of supply and transportation in war after war. They have greater capacity than any other kind of carrier. Damage can be sufficiently repaired to permit resumption of traffic in an incredibly short period of time. If war ever comes again, the odds are long that railroads will continue to be that backbone, and that both the military and civilians will lean heavily upon them for essential service.

Hearing Aid Must Be Properly Fitted

CHICAGO—Just buying a hearing aid is not enough, hearing specialists report. A deaf person must make sure that it is properly fitted and that he learns how to use it correctly.

Training in the proper use of a hearing aid can greatly increase its value. For instance, one patient with nerve deafness improved her discrimination ability from 58 per cent to 89 per cent with 20 hours of formal training.

However, many patients not only fail to receive proper instruction in the use of their aids, but they also don't even bother to make sure their aids fit properly. They frequently fail to follow their doctor's advice to go to their hearing aid dealer for correction, and to return for retesting to see whether the changes resulted in improvement.

Early Marine Life On Santa Catalina

LOS ANGELES—Evidence of a thriving "marine" civilization on Santa Catalina Island, southern California's famed tourist resort, as early as 2000 B.C. has been reported by a UCLA anthropologist.

Dr. Clement Meighan says that radioactive carbon techniques used to date Indian relics uncovered in the Little Harbor area of the island have established the site as about 4,000 years old.

Relics include primitive bone fish "hooks", quartz spear points, stone hammers for tenderizing abalone, mortars and pestles for grinding plant seeds, and shell beads. There were also large numbers of bones from dolphins, seals, and other forms of marine life uncovered at the site.

Transmitters

WASHINGTON—There are 342,000 licenses, authorizing about 1,200,000 fixed and mobile radio transmitters, in the United States today. Some 39,000 of these licenses, involving 410,000 transmitters, were authorized in one year alone.

Milk That Never Was

American dairymen are robbed of milk worth $225 million every year — milk that never even reached the farmer's pail. The thief is mastitis, a disease which drastically cuts down the milk output of dairy herds.

The sickness, caused by several different types of germs, can be spread by flies and milkers, and cows have become infected just by lying around germ-filled barnyards. What little milk diseased herds do produce is usually watery or straw-colored and unsuitable for marketing.

Cows suffering from mastitis lose weight, become feverish and show all the symptoms of depression. Their udders often are inflamed.

Luckily, the germs that cause mastitis are no match for powerful antibiotics like Terramycin, which clears the infection in a few days.

To keep the disease under control, farmers take special care to clean and disinfect all milk machines. Cows with infected udders are separated from the herd to avoid the spread of germs.

Sick cows need constant care, and farmers often spend many hours of the day and night applying icepacks to mastitis-stricken animals to prevent glands from swelling. It's hard work, but it pays off in contented cows on the farm and brimming milk glasses on the table.

Last year the chain stores spent $1,241,000,000 on store construction and modernization—an increase of 16.5 per cent over 1944. More than 15,000 of these stores are now in operation in the nation's shopping centers, and an additional 5,000-plus are scheduled to open this year.

Frank Kasmata Dies

The funeral service will be held at 2 p.m. Friday at the Cermak Home, 5842 Cermak rd., Cicero. Burial will be in the Bohemian National cemetery.

New Graduate Fellowship Applications are now being received by Illinois Institute of Technology, Chicago, for graduate study under a new $5,000 fellowship established by the Ohmite Manufacturing Co., Skokie, Ill.

Called the Ohmite Fellowship, the award provides a $2,500 stipend plus full tuition for study toward a master's degree in physics, chemical engineering, electrical engineering, or mechanical engineering next year.

Skalak Now at Skokie John Skalak, formerly with Klass Men's store in Antioch, is now associated with Broadstreet's store which opened today in the Old Orchard Shopping center at Skokie.

Auxiliary News

Antioch Unit 748, American Legion Auxiliary met in regular session Friday, April 26 and held initiation ceremonies for four new members, Joan Cervenka, Carol Cervenka, Josephine Pacini, and Hjordis Bremmer.

Citations
Antioch Unit has received a national citation for meritorious service in carrying forward the national program of the American Legion Auxiliary by enrolling a 1957 membership equal to or exceeding its 1956 membership by Jan. 31, 1957. The Unit also received a certificate of honor for outstanding cooperation in serving disabled veterans of World Wars I and II and the Korean conflict through contributions to the nine point rehabilitation program by Feb. 1, 1957.

Child Welfare
The Unit Child Welfare chairman, Maude Johnson, gave a short but interesting program on Child Welfare.

Gold Star Party
Antioch Unit will honor its Gold Star members at the meeting of the unit May 10. Gold Star chairman, Addie Horton, is planning a very fine program for the evening, and the Unit will have as its guests Edna Porteous, Tenth District director and the members of Lake Villa Unit 1219.

Poppy Posters Judged
Antioch Grade School students from the 4th to 8th grades inclusive participated in the Poppy Poster contest sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary. One hundred and thirty-seven posters were entered and the judging was held Monday in the Legion Home.

In Class I constituting 4th, 5th and 6th grades, first place was given Judith Garvin, second winner, William Eckert, and third place winner, Linda Weeder. Honorable mention was given the poster of Kathleen Schimmel.

Class II, 7th and 8th grades winners were: 1st, Karleen Rockow; 2nd, Lynne Doris Cheetham; 3rd, Peggy Garvin, and honorable mention to Carol Messersmith.

The posters are judged according to points and rules set up by the National Department of the American Legion Auxiliary. Points are as follows: Appeal, 50; artistic ability 15; originality, 25; and neatness, 10 points.

Many very good posters were disqualified due to not complying with one of the MUST rules, that each poster contain the words American Legion Auxiliary.

The judges of the posters were William Lahti, commander of the Antioch American Legion Post; Mrs. John V. Horton, a member of the Brush and Palette Artists group and Mrs. L. R. Van Patten, a past president of Antioch Unit and member of the Brush and Palette group also.

Winning posters in the Unit contest will be sent to the District for further competition and winning posters in the District are then sent to the Department for final judging.

Past Presidents Dine
Fourteen past presidents of Antioch Unit were in attendance at the Past Presidents Parley dinner held in the Legion Home, North Chicago, Tuesday evening, April 30.

Past presidents from all units in the Tenth District enjoyed the dinner and program. Those from Antioch attending were: Vera Horton, Agnes Hills, Maude Johnson, Pearl Anderson, Mary Chase, Carolyn Horan, Dorothy Horan, Rose Kennedy, Deborah Van Patten, Lucy Himens, Anne Heath, Eva Gaylord, Lillian Hand, and Del Jahneke.

The electric industry is currently spending $2 million a day for plant expansion and new facilities.

Time of the Twister

Springtime is tornado time. In the unstable transition from winter cold to summer heat, great masses of cold and warm air collide. When the heavier cold air is forced above the lighter warm air, funnels sometimes form to relieve the topsy-turvy situation. This is the twister.

SOME TORNADOES boil up each year in the United States. When they strike, local civil defense and the Red Cross speed to the rescue.

Spring is the time for a special weather eye to the tornado-spawning southwest. Last year, for instance, every major tornado occurred between February and May. On one day—April 5—four giant twisters killed 30 persons, injured 415 and caused an estimated $13,700,000 damage.

There is no way to prevent a tornado. But early warning, proper precautions and speedy rescue of victims can save lives. In addition, disaster funds administered by the Federal Civil Defense Administration can provide emergency repairs and restoration of vital community facilities when Federal assistance is authorized by the President to augment State and local efforts.

A $50 gifts to Red Cross will train 28 nurse's aides to assist professional nurses in hospitals and in the care of ill and injured disaster victims.

St. Patrick Shrine Bringing Fame to Missouri Town

ST. PATRICK, Mo.—This unique little town in the verdant hills of northeast Missouri has a new feature that draws many visitors.

If present interest continues, the new church—or Shrine of St. Patrick—will be one of the most photographed landmarks of our country. Visitors are already flocking to the site, although the shrine is not fully completed.

It will be perhaps the only church in our country with a round tower, a sort of dream from the middle ages. Erected of beautiful cut stone, it takes the visitor back to the hills and valleys of Ireland—the Isle of Saints with its glorious past. Its stained glass windows, made in Dublin, depict some of the Irish Saints. The choir window, now in place, contains such a variety of colors that it can be safely said there is no other window exactly like it.

The central figure, of course, is St. Patrick, who seemingly belongs to all nationalities, especially around March 17th. Surrounding the good Saint we find the Coat of Arms or the emblems of the four provinces of Ireland. The Red Hand of O'Neill, always raised in the cause of faith or freedom, is on the top. At the bottom are the Crowns of Munster, reminding of the kings who reigned by the Rock of Cashel even before the time of Christ. On the right is the Harp of Leinster, the great musical instrument of Ireland that goes back beyond the days of King David. On the left is the emblem of Connaught—the dagger of defense and the dove of peace.

Seeing Ability Affects Driving

NEW YORK—Indications of the vital relationship of seeing ability to highway accidents show up on all sides. For example, two-thirds of all traffic deaths occur at night, although one-third of the driving is done then. Poor seeing conditions, such as rain, snow, and sharp turns obscured by bushes, are a factor in one-fifth of the fatal highway accidents.

Comparative studies of accident-free drivers versus accident-repeaters also reveal significant trends. The repeaters are inferior in ability to see with both eyes together at the same time, in depth perception, ocular muscle balance, and visual acuity. As visual acuity decreases from 20/35 to 20/50, there is a rapid increase in accident rate. Up to 56 per cent of the repeaters have tunnel vision (inability to see objects on the side while looking straight ahead) as against only about one to three per cent of the accident-free drivers. This is a crucial point, because some 75 per cent of all traffic mishaps involve objects on the side.

Catastrophes Took Fewer Lives in '56

NEW YORK—Catastrophes—defined as those accidents in which five or more persons are killed—took more than 1,300 lives in the United States during 1956, about 150 less than in 1955.

The more favorable record reflects a smaller death toll in major catastrophes—those in which 25 or more lives were lost. During 1956 there were five such catastrophes which accounted for about 270 lives; in 1955 nine catastrophes of this magnitude caused the loss of more than 600 lives.

Not in many years has the death toll from outstanding natural disasters been so low. In 1955 the major hurricanes, floods, and tornadoes accounted for the loss of more than 450 lives, compared with only 25 during the year just ended.

Wierd Creatures on Barro Colorado Isle

WASHINGTON—Wierd creatures are the fashion on Barro Colorado, the Smithsonian Institution's tropical preserve in the Panama Canal Zone. For instance, there's the turkeylike curassow. In this family, the male should be boss; he has a roar that sounds "like a lion"—and the female is usually silent.

There is also a fruit-eating hawk known as "burja," the witch—a bird about the size of a raven whose back is coal-black. It has a white belly, red feet, and a greenish-yellow bill which sometimes is slightly blue at the tip. The name, however, is due less to its wierd appearance than to the almost continual "scolding" of other birds, or at any intruder into its retreat.

Capitol Classic
WASHINGTON—The 72 Ionic columns of the United States Treasury Building form one of the Capitol's classic sights. Each column measures 36 feet, nine inches in height, 12 feet, 6 1/2 inches in circumference, and weighs 35 tons. All were cut from single blocks of granite.

HEALTH TALK

Appendicitis

Deaths from appendicitis have decreased steadily in recent years, but the disease is still common, the Educational Committee of the Illinois State Medical Society observes in Health Talk.

The appendix is a small, apparently useless organ. Jutting out from the beginning of the large intestine, it varies in length, ranging from two to three inches long, though rare specimens up to nine inches have been found. Normally located in the lower right forward part of the abdomen, it is sometimes displaced from its normal position and may be found nearer the back. When that occurs, the appendicitis patient complains of a back pain instead of the usual distress in the abdomen.

When the organ becomes inflamed, caused by the blocking of the appendix by foreign matter or by infection, there is pain, with nausea or vomiting. The pain may be dull or sharp, the abdomen is sensitive to touch, particularly over the appendiceal area, and the temperature rises. A white blood count shows a great increase in white blood cells, a condition which indicates infection.

Ignorance is responsible for many deaths from appendicitis. Because the pain and distress associated with the disease closely resembles the symptoms brought on by constipation, patients sometimes resort to laxatives. Laxatives increase peristalsis, the movement by which the contents of the intestine are moved along. This increased pressure may extend the swelling and cause rupture of the appendix, spreading the infection to the peritonium, the lining of the abdominal cavity.

This condition, called peritonitis, is always dangerous, even though drugs such as the sulfonamides, penicillin and streptomycin have materially reduced the probability of death. If peritonitis occurs, however, the road to recovery is long, because of the rapidity with which the infection spreads throughout the system.

Because modern surgery has yielded improved techniques, the operation to remove the appendix is now done with great safety. Indeed, if it is performed early when the symptoms are mild and before complications set in, the patient is frequently walking about the second or third day and back at home within a week.

Prevention of disease is the important factor in its control. While there is no way to prevent appendicitis, serious complications can be averted if the physician is called immediately on the appearance of mild symptoms of gastrointestinal discomfort, soreness of the abdomen or pain, whether it be sharp or dull. It is not wise to ignore recurrent attacks, because the irritation produced by each leaves the appendix more susceptible to the final "blow up," which may result in death.

Some persons may live through life without an attack of appendicitis. Others may develop the condition in childhood.

The first thing to do is call your physician when severe pain appears in the lower right quadrant of the abdomen. Let him decide what the trouble is and what to do about it. Do not take laxatives or cathartics. Do not apply ice packs or heat to the painful area. Do not rub or massage the abdomen. Do not swallow anything except water until you have consulted a physician.

If your physician decides that surgery is essential, trust him. Ignoring his advice may cost you your life. Once the appendix bursts, the damage caused by spreading infection is more difficult to repair.

Savings Becoming Part of Average American Budget

NEW YORK—With all the intensified competition for the consumer's spending money and the steadily growing take of the tax collector, American people have been giving saving a little more room in their budgets over the past year, a reversal of the two preceding years.

Contributing to this development has been one of the most widespread efforts to stimulate personal thrift that the nation has ever seen. Seldom except in wartime has the need for increased saving been more widely recognized than now, nor has its practice received a greater encouragement. An added inducement has been provided by a noticeably improved reward for thrift in the form of higher interest rates, better dividends on savings, etc.

As a result, preliminary indications in figures compiled by the U. S. Department of Commerce are that 1956 was the first $20 billion savings year since the World War II period, when a combination of shortages, rising personal incomes, and patriotism brought the biggest personal savings the nation has ever seen. The indicated savings total for 1956 is about a fifth greater than the $16.6 billions of personal savings in 1955. The previous peak for the period since the end of World War II was $19.7 billions in 1953. The all-time high was $36.9 billions in 1944.

This development on the thrift front is the more significant in view of the need for greater saving to meet the rising capital requirements of our expanding economy, and to help counteract the strength and persistence of inflationary pressures which have pushed the cost of living to new high levels.

Predict 1957 to Be Top Business Year

LOS ANGELES — Two factors will make 1957 a record year for business.

One is the current high volume of business expenditure for new plant and equipment. The other is the rising trend of government spending.

This is the consensus prediction of 19 faculty members of the UCLA Graduate School of Business Administration, each of whom drew on knowledge of his personal specialty in preparing the forecast.

As a group, the participating faculty members foresee a gross national product reaching 429 billion dollars, some 16 billion over the previous record established in 1956.

Here's what the forecasters see ahead for the coming year:

1. Consumer spending will reach new highs due to increased incomes.
2. Industrial production will make new records. Automobile production will increase to 6,500,000 units, 12 per cent over 1956.
3. Residential construction, which declined by 200,000 units in 1956, will decrease another 100,000 units in 1957.
4. Both wholesale and consumer prices will be higher in the year ahead. Most current price increases reflect rising production costs—notably wages.

Early Cowboys Were 'Brush Poppers'

NORMAN, Okla. — Today the brush thickets of Texas are still in evidence, and wild cattle still hide in them, but the riotous pursuit of longhorns must be sought in the memoirs of cowhands of another day.

Perhaps the best of them all, says J. Frank Dobie, himself a "brush popper" of long standing as well as the recognized dean of Texas letters, was James H. Cook, author of "Fifty Years on the Old Frontier."

Roping the outlaw cattle demanded a technique far removed from that of the plain cowboys. The brush popper knew he would never catch a cow by looking for a soft entrance into the thicket; therefore, he hit it center, hit it flat, hit it on the run, and tore a hole in it. The brush popper had to be a rider good enough to travel all over his horse, or the whipping thickets would have torn him to pieces. If he could not afford gloves, his skin paid the price. "It is cheaper to grow skin than buy it anyway," said Cook.

Wise Children

MUNICH—An annual pageant is held in Dinkelsbühl, in German Bavaria, to honor the children who saved the town from destruction by a Swedish conqueror in 1632. As the story goes, one of the children reminded the conqueror of his own son who had died shortly before and the conqueror then ordered his soldiers not to loot and burn the town.

Great Lakes Naval Base Invites Alumni To Big Homecoming

Great Lakes Naval Training center, Navy alma mater for almost one-third of the men and women who have entered the Navy in the past 46 years, is inviting its nearly two million alumni back to what is probably the work's biggest homecoming.

According to training center commander, Capt. A. C. Burroughs, "Old sailors, new sailors and non-sailors are equally welcome to visit Great Lakes and get reacquainted with the Navy any time during the summer-long open house."

The program will focus attention on a different midwestern or southern state each week during the summer. States being saluted are those which furnish the major share of manpower trained at Great Lakes.

Each Saturday morning will be the climax of the salute in a mass graduation review of recruits completing training. Featured will be a company of men recruited especially for the event from the state being honored. Bearing their own state flag alongside the stars and stripes, the company will parade past the reviewing party composed of the governor and other high civil dignitaries from the state plus a Navy admiral, native of the honor state.

Special attractions for visitors include demonstrations by skilled Navy technicians. Shipboard firefighting, deep sea diving, underwater demolition, air demonstrations featuring the Blue Angels, helicopter and amphibious demonstrations head the list.

The story of development and progress in ships from coal to atom power, the history of naval aviation from its beginning to the foreseeable future and the life of men at sea will be included in an exhibit hall prepared especially for the homecoming.

Navy missiles from the small Sparrow to the target-seeking Sidewinder to the lethal Regulus II will be on display. Latest Navy carrier aircraft will be rigged to permit visitors to walk up over the wings and look into the cockpits.

"Although the initial program honoring a state is not scheduled until June 1," Capt. Burroughs explained, "this early announcement is being made to permit vacation planning to include Great Lakes." Although planned for alumni of Great Lakes, the Homecoming program is designed for the general public as well. A schedule of events to interest adults and children alike is available every day during the summer.

Matter of Diet Makes Queen Bee Differ From Rest

WASHINGTON — The difference between a queen bee and an ordinary bee is a matter of diet.

Simply by eating a special food — "royal jelly" — for two and a half days at a critical time of life makes the young honey bee into a queen — long-lived, fertile, but with no maternal instincts.

The worker bees, also female, are not egg layers, but they do the work of rearing the young.

Each bee begins life as a comma-shaped egg, laid by a queen in the bottom of a waxen cell in the honeycomb. The eggs hatch into grublike larvae.

At first all grubs eat the royal jelly—a sour-sweet substance resembling condensed milk. It is secreted by nurse bees.

After three days on the royal diet, commoners of the hive are switched to a honey and pollen formula. But the bee that happens to be hatched in a large, specially prepared queen cell sips on the royal fare for the rest of her five and a half-day larval life. When she is an adult, she is attended by circle of nurse bees which continue to feed her the jelly as she goes about the hive laying eggs. She can lay thousands in a single day, with a total weight heavier than her own.

In addition to supporting this egg production, her highness' diet apparently enables her to live as long as five years.

Farm Problem Is Far From Solved

Despite twenty billion dollars spent by the federal government in the past two decades for agricultural aid, our farm problems have not been solved and some of our current measures aimed at their solution are self-defeating and socially undesirable although others are constructive and useful, says a Twentieth Century Fund book, "Can We Solve the Farm Problem?"

"The agricultural legislation of the war years and most of that since has been of the 'antidepression' type, though used principally as a means of maintaining a wartime level of prosperity for farmers," says the author of the Twentieth Century Fund study. "The fear of a return to 1930 conditions has continued strong, but the principal objective of much of the recent legislation has been the maintenance of high levels of demand and price rather than the prevention of serious depression . . . The time seems now to have arrived when we must, whether we wish it or not, look ahead and try to develop a farm program suited to conditions that do not reflect either anemia of the depression years or the robust demand of the 1940's."
